Lot - Lessons for the Last Days

It will be just like this on the day the Son of Man is revealed. Along with Noah, the study of Lot closely matches many of the challenges that we face both in our personal and ecclesial lives and as such is filled with exhortation and warning for us in these last days. Our topics will take us through God's call for us to return from apostasy and embrace truth. We will then look at the choices we make in becoming successful, the pressures that the ecclesial foundations face in these last days and the judgement of God that is at our door. We will then find comfort in God's loving redemption where a remnant will be saved.

About Me

I was born and raised in Guyana, South America in a Christadelphian family. I do especially like the practical teachings of the bible and am constantly challenged by their application to our modern world. Sis Rhoda and I live in Ottawa, Canada with our three teenaged children.
